

JELCW Policy for the 23rd Term —
“Trust in the Lord who is next to Us”
Mie Haga, President

The 23rd term has begun.

1. To be joined together with the members of each CW via the biannual Newsletter, to send out and share information via the communication, ‘Hibiki’; and internet site.
2. To learn the Word through the monthly “Bible Study”; the insert in the Newsletter
3. To support ministry at home and abroad through thanksgiving donations
4. To model our faith for subsequent generations and support ministry to children
5. To aid disaster-hit areas by utilizing mail order shopping
6. To discuss procedural options for electing our president

The league will follow for above six agenda items.

In light of recent developments in the society, such as the passing of the Security Laws and recommissioning of nuclear power plants, I am afraid that the life and health of coming generations could be threatened. I hope that we can pray and take action which will enable this society to become more concerned with the preservation of life and health. All the CW’s across the country are invited to share prayers and support. Let us walk together, “trusting the Lord next to us” in good times and bad times.

When the General Meeting and Rally was over, a sister from Nagasaki Church talked to me. She said that the women’s group at her church was currently inactive in the league, though she was sent by the congregation. I felt something fervent in her word.

I know that some CW’s are in recess. I pray that they will be able to resume activities, and toward that end, we will consider what the league can do.

Greetings from the new officers

Akiko Nemoto, vice president & treasurer

With whatever I can or cannot do, I would like to be prudent, accurate, and brave with all my strength. I hope this will meet His will and benefit the league.

Noriko Sugimoto, secretary

Through the coming three years, I would like to discover the meaning of my sharing responsibilities in JELCW this year, which marks the 70th anniversary of the end of WWII amid an aging society.

Etsuko Yanai, communications

I will pray and do my best step by step, so that LELCW can deliver the biannual newsletters as rich in content as possible. I trust God will help me.

The 23rd Board members (from left to right)
Akiko Nemoto (Vice President/Treasurer)
Noriko Sugimoto (Secretary)
Etsuko Yanai (Communications)
Yoshie Haga (President)